TO THE
INHABITANTS OF THE BRITISH COLONIES IN NORTH AMERICA.

AS the following GENERAL REGISTER is the first attempt of the kind that hath yet appeared in these colonies, the publisher begs leave to bespeak the patronage and encouragement of all those who are friends to the political and commercial interests of BRITISH AMERICA.

The utility of such a work hath been long experienced and acknowledged in the Mother Country : And the time is now come, when it must be equally necessary and advantageous here. The intercourse and connection of the several colonies with each other, is enlarging and growing stronger every day ; so that it becomes a matter of some consequence to every inhabitant, to be acquainted with the public offices and officers, not only of the particular province in which he resides, but in all the other provinces on the continent. Business will make such a manual as this absolutely necessary to some ; and curiosity at least may hereby be agreeably satisfied in others. To strangers too it must be particularly beneficial ; as they may justly be supposed to be much less acquainted with these matters than those who continually reside amongst us.

The undertaking hath already been much approved of and countenanced by many ingenious men and very competent judges in this and the neighbouring provinces. To these gentlemen the publisher most gratefully acknowledges his obligations for the materials with which they have cheerfully furnished him. The greater part of these materials may be depended upon for their authenticity, as they are taken from the original books of records in the several provinces.

Many errors and deficiencies, perhaps, will be found in this first publication. These however, the publisher flatters himself will be kindly pointed out to him, and such pieces of intelligence communicated, as will enable him to execute his design more fully and accurately in the next year's register.

ROBERT AITKEN.

A M E R I C A,

WAS first discovered by Christopher Columbus a Genoese, in the service of Ferdinand and Isabella, king and queen of Castile, who sailed from Saint Lucar in August, anno domini, 1492; and landed the 11th October following, on one of the Bahama-Islands, to which he gave the name of Saint Salvador, now called Cat-Island; from thence he proceeded to Hispaniola and Cuba, and returned to Spain.

1498 Sebastian Cabot, a Venetian, in the service of king Henry the VII of England, made discovery of the coast of America, from the latitude of  $67^{\circ}$  to  $40^{\circ}$  north latitude; before Columbus had discovered any part of the continent of America.

1584 Sir Walter Raleigh and others obtained a patent from queen Elizabeth, for discovering and planting lands in North America.

1585 Sir Walter, sent sir Richard Grenville, with several vessels, and one hundred and eight people to begin a plantation; they landed upon the island Roanoke, near the mouth of Albemarle river, in North Carolina.

1586 Sir Francis Drake touched at Roanoke, in his way from the Spanish West-Indies, through the gulf of Florida; with him most of the settlers of the former year returned to England.

1587 Three ships with men and women settlers, arrived at Roanoke, and formed themselves into a government: Mr. John White being governor.

1590 Mr. White returned with three ships, but being drove to sea by a violent gale of wind, he proceeded to England; the settlers he had formerly left there, being afterwards, as was supposed, cut off by the Indians.

No further attempt of any consequence was made until anno domini 1606. When king James the first on the 10th of April passed a grant to two companies in one charter, viz. to the London adventurers, from  $34^{\circ}$  to  $38^{\circ}$  north latitude; and to the Bristol, Exeter, Plymouth and other adventurers, from  $41^{\circ}$  to  $45^{\circ}$ .

1609 Henry Hudson, an English man, in the service of the Dutch East-India company, sailed up Hudson's river; and afterwards returned to Amsterdam, where (as the Dutch pretend) he sold a chart he had made of the American coast; under colour of which purchase, they laid claim to that territory, which now forms the colonies of New-York, New-Jersey, and Pennsylvania, being that part which was not included in the grant made by king James, in the North and South Virginia Patent.

Having given a concise chronological account of events in North America, to the time of it's first settlement, we proceed with the different colonies; not in the order in which they were peopled, nor according to their situation; having been prevented from such an arrangement by not receiving the necessary materials in due time; in our next publication we shall be better prepared, when we hope to proceed in a more regular tract.

" HIS majesty's intentions are, that according to his commissions granted for that purpose, the orders of his commander in chief, and under him, him of the Brigadier-general, commanding in the northern and southern departments, in all Military affairs, shall be supreme, and must be obeyed by the troops, as such, in all the civil governments in America.

" That in cases where no specifick orders have been given by the commander in chief or by the Brigadier-general commanding in the district, the civil governor in council, and where no council shall subsist, the civil governor may, for the benefit of his government, give orders for the marching of troops, the disposition of them, for making and marching detachments, escorts, and such purely military services within his government, to the commanding officer of the troops, who is to give proper orders for carrying the same into execution : Provided they are not contradictory to, or incompatible with, any order he may have received from the commander in chief or the Brigadier-general of the district.

" And the commanding officer is, from time to time duly to report, with all convenient expedition, to the commander in chief, or to the Brigadier-general, such orders as he shall have received from the civil governor.

" That the civil governor shall give the Word in all places where he shall be within his Province, except where the commander in chief or Brigadier-general shall be in the same place.

" That the return of the state and condition of the troops, magazines and fortifications, shall be made to the governors, as well as to the commander in chief and Brigadier-general.

" That the civil government is not to interfere with the detail of the military regimental duty and discipline, the reports concerning which are to be made to the commanding officer, who is to make his general report to the civil governor.

" When the commander in chief or Brigadier-general shall be present, all military orders are to be issued by them only."

GEORGE R.

WHEREAS Our late Royal Grand-father, of glorious and happy memory, did fix certain rules with regard to rank and precedence to be observed between the commanders in chief, generals and other officers of his Majesty's forces in America, and the governors, lieutenant-governors, and presidents of council, of the several provinces and colonies: And WE, in order to prevent all disputes, having thought fit to fix the same rules, with regard to the rank and precedence to be observed between the commander in chief, generals and other officers of our forces in America, and the governors, lieutenant-governors, and presidents of the council of our several provinces and colonies; DO hereby declare, that it is our will and pleasure, that the following rules be observed with respect to the rank and precedence of the said persons in America, viz.

I. The Commander in chief of our forces, by commission under our great seal of Great-Britain.

II. Captains-General and Governors in chief of our provinces and colonies, when in their respective governments, as appointed by commission under our great seal of Great-Britain.

III. General Officers upon the staff.

IV. Captains-General and Commander in chief of our provinces and colonies, when out of their respective governments.

V. Lieutenant-Governors and Presidents of council, when Commanders in chief of our provinces and colonies in their respective governments.

VI. Colonels.

VII. Lieutenant-Governors and Presidents of council, when commanders in chief of our provinces and colonies, out of their respective governments.

VIII. Lieutenant-Governors of our provinces and colonies, not being Commanders in chief, in their respective governments.

IX. Lieutenant-Governors of our provinces and colonies, not being Commanders in chief, out of their respective governments.

X. Governors of charter-colonies, when in their respective colonies.

XI. All Field-Officers under the rank of Colonels.

XII. Lieutenant-Governors of proprietary governments, out of their respective governments.

XIII. Governors of charter-colonies, out of their respective colonies.

All Captains-General and Governors in chief of our provinces and colonies to take rank according to the dates of their commissions: All Lieutenant-Governors of our provinces the same: All Lieutenant-Governors of proprietary-governments the same: Governors of charter-colonies, according to the date of their charters.

The LIBRARY COMPANY of PHILADELPHIA.

IN the year 1731, several gentlemen with a view to promote useful knowledge, laid the foundation of the present Library, and soon had the satisfaction of seeing it enlarge, and prove beneficial. On the 15th March, 1742, the honorable JOHN PENN, THOMAS PENN and RICHARD PENN, esquires, Proprietaries of the Province, granted them a charter; at which time the members amounted to seventy-five.

Other gentlemen of the city animated by the same liberal sentiments, and actuated by the like worthy motives, thought it necessary that more libraries should be formed. These when established became also of public utility, and remained long in a flourishing condition. The members however of the respective companies, considering, that for many reasons it would conduce more to the advancement of literature, if the different libraries were united, agreed to join their interests together, which in the year 1769, was happily accomplished.

At present the number of members exceeds four hundred. They possess a most valuable collection of books, with sundry other articles, such as medals, manuscripts, fossils, philosophical apparatus, &c. &c. The present price of a share is fixed at ten pounds, and the annual payment at ten shillings; for which small consideration a person may have recourse to some thousands of volumes, and also to many valuable machines for making experiments in natural philosophy.

The library is at present kept in the west wing of the state-house, but is shortly to be removed into the first floor of the carpenters hall, which the directors have hired for the purpose.

The COLLEGE and ACADEMY of PHILADELPHIA.

THIS seminary, which is established upon the most extensive plan, may properly be considered as one great collection of schools, in all the different branches of education, under the same general government and direction. It is commonly distinguished into three parts—the COLLEGE, ACADEMY, and CHARITABLE SCHOOL; and the TRUSTEES, who are 24 in number, are accordingly incorporated by the name of "The Trustees of the College, Academy and Charitable School of Philadelphia, in the Province of Pennsylvania."

In the Charitable School (which, with the Academy, was opened in 1749) sixty boys are taught reading, writing, arithmetic and some parts of mathematics; and thirty girls, together with reading and writing, are instructed in needle-work, and something of accounts. None are admitted into this school under 8 years of age, nor continued more than 4 years in it, and some leave it in a shorter time; so that it has already been the means of instructing more than six hundred poor children of both sexes gratis, and of qualifying them for mechanic professions, as well as for trade, navigation, and other useful employments.

In the Academy are taught English grammatically, the rules of oratory, public speaking, the French language, with writing, merchants accounts, geography, and the practical branches of mathematics, for the benefit of those who have not leisure to acquire the learned languages, or to go through a collegiate education. At the same time with the Academy, and as a foundation for the College, the Latin and Greek schools were opened in 1749; in which these languages have been since constantly taught in most approved methods, under the direction of an able professor of languages, assisted by two or more ushers and a writing master.

In the year 1754, a number of young gentlemen being now prepared for the study of the sciences, the COLLEGE was opened; the students of which are divided into three classes; those of the first year being called Freshmen; those of the second Juniors, and those of the third Seniors; for admission into the Freshmen-class, a student must be able to stand an examination in the latin classics, the Greek testament and Lucian, and in the common rules of arithmetic, vulgar and decimal fractions, extraction of roots and something of algebra. Those who are thus qualified at their admission, may obtain the degree of Bachelor of arts in three years, on a public examination, they are found to have made a sufficient progress in the studies of the different years, which are as follow, viz.

The first year,

One part of the day is spent in reading the higher Latin and Greek classics critically; with logic, metaphysics, themes, translations, descriptions, &c.

The other part of the day in algebra, the first six books of Euclid, plain trigonometry, the construction and use of logarithms, surveying, the finding of heights and distances, &c.

The second year,

In one part of the day, the higher classics are continued, with geography, syllogistic and forensic disputations, and moral philosophy begun—

In the other part of the day, spherical trigonometry and conic sections, with some part of natural philosophy, viz. the properties of body, the mechanic powers, hydrostatics, and pneumatics; the whole being illustrated with proper experiments.

The third year,

In one part of the day, moral philosophy is continued, with chronology, and an introduction to civil history, laws and government.

In the other part of the day natural philosophy is continued, viz. optics and astronomy, with rhetoric and exercises in composition; for assistance in which, lectures are given on Longinus and some others of the best critics ancient and modern.

The last two months of this year are spent in a review of all the foregoing studies, preparatory to the public examination; and one afternoon every week, during the whole three years, is spent, under the professor of oratory, in declamation and public speaking; and, besides the college studies, the youth have the opportunity of private masters in the city, to learn drawing, dancing, fencing and all the other accomplishments that can be acquired by an American education.

In the year 1765, the plan of the College was greatly enlarged, by the addition of medical schools, and the appointment of professors for reading lectures in anatomy, botany, chemistry, materia medica, theory and practice of physic, and clinical lectures in the provincial hospital; so that a medical education can now be obtained here, to the great advantage of the colonies, in the same manner as in the most approved European seminaries.

The rules of the medical schools are as follow—

For a Bachelor's degree in phisic ;

1. Such students as have not taken a degree in arts shall, before admission to this degree in phisic, be examined in the Latin tongue, and such branches of mathematics, natural and experimental philosophy, as shall be judged requisite to a medical education.
2. Each student, before he can be admitted to an examination for a bachelor's degree in phisic, shall take at least one course in anatomy, materia medica, chemistry, theory and practice of phisic and clinical lectures, and shall also attend the practice of the Pennsylvania Hospital for one year, besides having served a sufficient apprenticeship to some reputable practitioner in phisic, and the having a general knowledge of pharmacy.

For a doctor's degree in phisic—

It is required that at least three years shall have intervened from the time of taking the bachelor's degree, and that the candidate be full twenty-four years of age, and that he write and defend publicly in college a Latin thesis, or dissertation on some disease, or other useful medical topic, which shall be also printed at his own expence.

The commencement in this college, both for degrees in the arts and in phisic, is generally held about the middle of May ; that being the most convenient time, after finishing the winter lectures.

The Trustees, who, by charter, are all to reside in the city of Philadelphia, or within 5 miles of it, visit the college on the 3d tuesday of every month, for the purpose of examining the schools, conversing and advising with the professors, and making such regulations as may be necessary.

The Provost Vice provost and Professors are, by charter, constituted into one faculty, for the ordinary government of the schools and education of the youth, and have the power of making temporary rules ; which are always to be laid before the next subsequent meeting of the trustees, to be by them confirmed, amended, left probationary, or wholly rejected, as they shall judge most convenient.

In the college and grammar school preparatory to it are	126	} Scholars.
In the academy	35
In the medical schools about	40
In the charitable school	90

About 291 in the whole.

This seminary, whose plan is truly catholic, is chiefly indebted for its funds to the generosity of individuals. Above thirteen thousand pounds sterling were collected in England for it and the College of New-York, in the year 1763. Liberal collections have since been made for it in the city of Philadelphia, South-Carolina, Jamaica and elsewhere; so that in the list of its benefactors (which is too large to be inserted here) are to be found many of the principal names in Great-Britain and America.

There are quarterly examinations before the trustees &c. and yearly premiums to the most deserving students in each class. The expence of boarding and lodging in College with washing, is at an average about 44 dollars. The price of schooling and firewood £ 4 10. or 12 dollars per annum. The trustees are now enclosing their ground with an high wall, and gates to be shut at 9 o'clock at night in winter and 10 in summer, so that the students shall have no communication with the town after those hours.

The PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL.

ABOUT the end of the year 1750, some persons, who had frequent opportunities of observing the distress of such distemper'd poor from time to time came to Philadelphia, for the advice and assistance of the physicians and surgeons of that city, how difficult it was for them to procure suitable lodgings, and other conveniences proper for their respective cases, and how expensive the providing good and careful nurses, and other attendants, for want whereof, many must suffer greatly, and some probably perish that might otherwise have been restored to health and comfort, and become useful to themselves, their families, and the public, for many years after; and considering moreover, that even the poor inhabitants of this city, tho' they had homes, yet were therein but badly accommodated in sickness, and could not be so well and so easily taken care of in their separate habitations, as they might be in one convenient house, under one inspection, and in the hands of skilful practitioners; and several of the inhabitants of the province, who unhappily became disordered in their senses, wander'd about, to the terror of their neighbours, their being no place (except the house of correction) in which they might be confined, and subjected to proper management for their recovery, and that house was by no means fitted for such purposes; did charitably consult together, and confer with their friends and acquaintances, on the best means of relieving the distressed, under those circumstances; and an infirmary, or hospital, in the manner of several lately established in Great-Britain, being proposed, was so generally approved, that there was reason to expect a considerable subscription from the inhabitants of this city, towards the support of such an hospital; but the expence of erecting a building sufficiently large and commodious for the purpose, it was thought would be too heavy, unless the subscription could be made general through the province, and some assistance could be obtained from the assembly; a petition was therefore drawn and presented to the house on the 23d January, 1750-1. The assembly in consequence passed an act, granting the sum of £ 3000, to be paid as soon as a like sum should be raised by subscriptions or contributions.

As soon as the law was published, the promoters of the design set on foot a subscription, which in a short time amounted to considerable more than the sum required by the act; and on the first of July 1751, a majority of the contributors met at the State-house in Philadelphia, and pursuant to the act, chose by ballot twelve managers and a treasurer. On the 10th February, 1752, the first patients were admitted in a house provided for the purpose. In the spring of the year 1754 the present building was begun, and in December 1756, was so far compleated as to be fit for the reception of the patients.

PHILADELPHIA, FOR PROMOTING USEFUL KNOWLEDGE.

THIS society was formed, January 2d, 1769, by the union of two other literary societies that had subsisted for some time in Philadelphia. The first volume of their transactions was published in 4to. January 1771; and the many curious papers it contains, particularly their truly accurate observations of the transits of Venus and Mercury, have spread their reputation to the most distant parts of Europe, and men of the first eminence in the different societies there, have signified that they thought themselves honored by their being elected into this American Society. It now consists of near three hundred members, and if the design is prosecuted with spirit and perseverance, it must continue to reflect credit on the country where it is instituted, and be the means of encouraging many useful improvements, as well as useful men whose genius might otherwise be lost to their country.

The present Officers of this Society are,

Patron,

The honorable RICHARD PENN, esq; Governor of the Province of Pennsylvania.

SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING THE CULTURE OF SILK.

AMONG several other public spirited undertakings set on foot by the American Philosophical Society, this for encouraging the culture of Silk, is one. After much attention to the subject, they proposed a plan for carrying the design into execution; and made application to the honourable assembly of the province for assistance; which could not then be granted, tho' the society with pleasure discovered such a disposition in the members as gave reason to expect future aid. Their next application was to their fellow-citizens, who with their usual public spirit, subscribed about one thousand pounds towards the design. The society having brought the business to so great maturity, now considered that the execution of the scheme was a matter that could not properly come under their management ment, and therefore recommended it to the contributors to choose twelve managers and a treasurer annually; and the first election was accordingly made, March 16, 1770. The gentlemen who were elected had every difficulty to encounter that attends a new design, together with some that belonged to this in a pecoliar manner. However they have at length seen the foundation laid of what may hereafter prove a very extensive public benefit to a country that has a sufficient number of hands for such an undertaking. The honourable assembly, sensible of this, and finding that the money subscribed was nearly expended, were pleased, last year to grant £1000 towards the further carrying on the design. Since the establishment of the filature near 400 lb. of silk has been reeled from purchased cocoons; besides large quantities reeled for individuals; and the silk thus reeled and sent Home, has been declared as good in quality as any that came to the London market, and brought the price accordingly.

GOVERNMENT of the Counties of NEW-CASTLE, KENT and SUSSEX upon DELAWARE.

THE Dutch under the pretended purchase made of Henry Hudson, (as taken notice of in the general chronological account preceding) possessed themselves of the lands on both sides of the river Delaware; and in the year

- 1613 built a fort at the place now called Gloucester in New-Jersey.
 1627 The Sweeds and Finns arrived, and landed at Cape Inlopen, at which time the Dutch had wholly quitted the country.
 1630 The Dutch returning, built a fort at Lewes Town, by them named Hoeren Kill.
 1631 The Sweeds built a fort near Wilmington, which they called Christen, there they laid out a small town, which was afterwards demolished by the Dutch; the same year they erected a fort higher up the river upon Tenicum island, which they called New Gotteburgh, they also, about the same time, built forts at Chester, Elsinburgh, and other places. John Printz then governed the Sweeds, who in 1654 deputed his son-in-law John Pappais and returned to Sweden; John Ryfing soon after succeeded to the government upon Pappais's return to his native country.
 1655 The Dutch under command of Peter Stuyvesant arrived in Delaware river in seven vessels (from New Amsterdam now New-York) having on board 6 or 700 men; they dispossessed the Sweeds of their forts on the river and carried the officers and principal inhabitants prisoners to New Amsterdam and from thence to Holland; the common people having submitted to the conquerors, remained in the country.
 1664 Sir Robert Carr, on the 1st of October obtained the submission of the Sweeds settled on Delaware.
 1668 Col. Nicolls, governor of New-York, with his council, on the 21st April appointed the following persons as a council to assist captain Carr in the government of the country. viz. ——— scout; Hans Block, Israel Holme, Peter Rambo, Peter Cock and Peter Aldrick.
 1672 The town of New-Castle, was incorporated by the government of New-York, to be governed by a bailiff and six assistants; after the first year the four oldest to go out and four others to be chosen. The bailiff was president with a double vote, the constable chosen by the bench; they had power to try causes not exceeding £ 10. without appeal. The office of scout was converted into that of sheriff, who had jurisdiction in the corporation and along the river, and was annually chosen; they were to have a free trade, without being obliged obliged to make entry at New-York, as had formerly been the practice.

1693 Wampam was about this time the principal currency of the country. Governor Lovelace of New-York by proclamation ordered that 4 white grains, and 3 black ones should pass for the value of a silver or penny, this proclamation was published at Albany, Esopus, Delaware, Long-Island and parts adjacent.

1674 King Charles the II by a second patent, dated June 23, granted to his brother the Duke of York, all that country called by the Dutch New Netherland, of which the three counties of New-Castle, Kent and Suffex were a part; the former grant of March 12, 1663-4 being considered as insufficient, on account of the conquest made by the Dutch, who surrendered it to the English by the 3d article of the treaty of Breda signed July 21, 1667.

1683 The Duke of York, by deed dated 22 August, sold to William Penn the town of New-Castle with the district of 12 miles round the same, and also by another deed of the same date, granted unto him the remainder of the territory which now composes The three lower counties.

THE LAND OFFICE.

A L. L. papers relative to the granting of vacant land within this province, issue out and are recorded in the land-office; and the mode pursued to effect such vacant lands are by warrants either special or common. If the lands are cultivated or improved they cannot be affected by any other than a special warrant; specifying the particular location and quantity to be effected. And all such warrants issue in consequence of an order from the proprietor's agent (Dan. of St Thomas Jenefer, esq;) notifying that the caution money of £. 5 sterl. per hundred acres, or in proportion (if a less quantity) is paid. The warrant is directed to the surveyor of the county where the land lays, he makes a survey, survey, and returns the certificate thereof into the land-office; from thence it is transmitted to the examiner general, (Upton Scott, esq;) and after examination it is returned to the land-office. A patent or grant then issues on the certificate, subject to the payment of an annual rent of 4s. sterling for every hundred acres. The fees attending the granting of the warrant, the survey in consequence, the examination of the certificate, issuing patent thereon, and affixing the great seal of the province thereto, will amount to about the sum of £.7 or 8 currency per hundred acres; but of this till a survey is made 'tis impossible to say with certainty.

The same mode is literally pursued in common warrants to effect uncultivated lands; but the expences are rather less.

It is to be observed, the aforesaid warrants are to effect lands never before taken up. There are other warrants that issue out of the land office; such as warrants of re-survey, escheat warrants, and warrants under the proclamation.

The first of these are granted to re-survey a tract of land already patented (and in which the petitioner has a fee simple) and to add all or any contiguous vacancy whether cultivated or otherwise. This warrant as well as all others, are to be executed or renewed within the first six months from the time of granting, otherwise they are of no force or effect, and any vacant land added, if not paid for within two years from the date of the warrant, (agreeable to sundry proclamations published) will become subject and liable to the benefit of the first discoverer thereof, and hence the proclamation warrants take their rise; for they and other warrants, can legally effect lands thus circumstanced.

Warrants of Escheat are only granted in instances where the original patentees or persons claiming under them, have died seized in fee, intestate, and without heirs, of tracts of land heretofore granted; with liberty given of effecting as well such original tracts of escheat, as any vacant land thereto adjoining. The composition money payable as in the above cases, with this distinction, that the quality of the escheat land and improvements thereon, are more particularly described by the surveyor, and from such description the agent and receiver general ascertain the real value of the land so escheated. The petitioner is intitled to one third of the full valuation of the escheat for the discovery, and the residue together with any vacancy added, he is to pay the agent for, to intitle him a grant. The fees and expences incidental to all these warrants are considerably more than in primitive surveys, and cannot be particularly ascertained till the whole business is completed.

By an instruction (from the board of revenue) no certificate whatever can be patented tho' every requisite is complied with, till it has lain three months in the office. The intention of this instruction (it is presumed) was in order to give persons who might be injured from private and secret surveys being made, an opportunity of contesting such survey by caveat.

The land-office and all offices respecting the proprietor's revenue, are in a great measure subject to the controul of the board of revenue which was established by the late lord proprietary, and is composed of the following gentlemen, to wit.

NEW JERSEY.

1663-4 March 12. King Charles the II granted all that territory, called by the Dutch New-Netherland, unto his brother the Duke of York, 1664 June 24. The Duke granted that part now called New Jersey, to Lord Berkley of Stratton, and Sir George Carteret jointly. On the 4th of December, in this year, governor Nicolls of New-York made a grant of Elizabeth Town to sundry persons, before the Duke of York's grant was known.

1672 The Dutch reduced the country.

1673-4 February 9. By the peace of Weminster, it was restored.

1674 June 29. In consequence of the conquest made by the Dutch, and to obviate any objections that might arise on account thereof, against the former grant, a new patent issued to the Duke of York for the same country.

July 28, 29. A partition having been agreed upon between Sir George Carteret and the assignees of Edward Bylinge; the Duke of York by deeds of lease and release, granted East-Jersey to Sir George.

1675 Lord Berkley's half (West-Jersey) was sold to John Fenwick in trust for Edward Bylinge, who assigned his interest therein to William Penn, Gavin Laurie and Nicholas Lucas, as trustees for the use of his creditors.

1676 July 1. Mutual quit claims were executed between Sir George Carteret and the trustees of Bylinge. This partition was confirmed 1719 by act of general assembly of the Jerseys.

1677 This year the town of Bridlington (now Burlington) was laid out.

1678 October 10. The Duke of York made a new grant of West-Jersey to the assigns of Lord Berkley.

1681 February 1, 2. In pursuance of Sir George Carteret's will, dated the 5th of December 1678—East-Jersey was sold, and conveyed to twelve twelve persons, who by separate deeds, each took a partner; these with the other twelve, are since called the Twenty-four Proprietors.

 1682 March 14. The Duke of York made a new grant for East-Jersey, to the said Twenty-four Proprietors.

KINGS-COLLEGE, in the CITY of NEW-YORK,

WAS principally founded by the voluntary contributions of the inhabitants of the province, assisted by the general assembly, and the corporation of Trinity church, in the year of our Lord 1754. a royal charter being then obtained, incorporating a number of gentlemen therein mentioned, by the name of "the governors of the College of the province of New-York, in the city of New-York, in America"; and granting to them and their successors for ever, amongst various other rights and privileges, the power of conferring all such degrees, as are usually conferred by either of the English universities.

By the charter it is provided that the President shall always be a member of the church of England, and that a form of prayer collected from the liturgy, liturgy of that church, with a particular prayer for the College, shall be daily used, morning and evening, in the College-chapel; at the same time no test of their religious persuasion being required from any of the fellow professors or tutors; and the advantages of education being equally extended to students of all denominations.

By the original benefactions within the province, and those which have been since obtained, royal as well as others, in Great-Britain and elsewhere the governors of the College have been enabled to extend their plan, so as to have professors in the different branches of science usually taught in European Colleges.

The building (which is only one third of the intended structure) consists of an elegant stone edifice, three complete stories high, with four stair cases, twelve apartments in each, a chapel, hall, library, museum, anatomical theatre and a school for experimental philosophy.

All students, but those in medicine, are obliged to lodge and diet in the College, unless they are particularly exempted by the governors or president; and for the security of their morals, &c. the edifice is surrounded by an high fence, which also encloses a large court and garden; and a porter constantly attends at the front gate, which is lock'd at 10 o'clock each evening in summer, and at 9 in winter; after which hours, the names of all that come in, are delivered weekly to the President.

The College is situated on a dry gravelly soil, about 150 yards from the bank of Hudson's river, which it overlooks; commanding a most extensive and beautiful prospect.

The GOVERNORS of the COLLEGE (as nominated in the CHARTER together with those that have been since elected) as they stand at present, are as follow;

The lord archbishop of Canterbury, first lord commissioner for trade, &c. Governor of the province, eldest Councillor, Judges of the Supreme Court, Secretary of the province, Attorney General of ditto, speaker of the General Assembly, Treasurer of the province, Mayor of the city, Rector of Trinity-church, senior minister of the Dutch church, ditto of the ancient Lutheran church, ditto of the French church, ditto of the Presbyterian congregation, the President of the College.

The hon. Henry Cruger, hon. John Watts, Frederick Philipse, hon. Oliver De Lancey, Nathaniel Marston, John Livingston, David Clarkson, Leonard Lispenard, James De Lancey, James Duane, esqrs; earl of Sterling, hon. Charles Ward Apthorp, esq; Thomas Jones, Archibald Kennedy, hon. Roger Morris, esqrs; John Ogilvie D. D. Goldsborough Banyar, William Walton, Samuel Verplanck, esqrs; Rev. Charles Inglis M. A. hon. Henry White, Jacob Walton, John Harris Cruger, esqrs; N. B. The archbishop of Canterbury and the first lord of trade are represented at the board of governors by their proxies.

Proxy for his Grace, Dr. Cooper; for the first lord of trade, ———.

The time of admitting students, (save those in medicine, who may enter before any course of lectures in that faculty) is the latter end of June.

The time from matriculation or entrance in the College, required for the degree of B. A. is 4 years, for the degree of M. A. 7; degrees in physic, &c. being taken at different periods, according to different circumstances.

The annual meeting of the governors, is the 2d tuesday in May; and the commencement, or general time of admission to degrees, the tuesday following.

The examination for degrees, which is open to all, is six weeks before commencement.

Visitations by the governors, &c. are quarterly; at which times premiums of books, silver medals, &c. are adjudged to the most deserving.

The medical lectures begin annually the 1st of November, and end in May, the other parts of education being continued the whole year.
